The due date is extended to match the Federal April due date, if extended. For Fiscal Year filers, the original FY ending due date will be extended by six months.

Late filing penalties will not be imposed if the return is filed by the due date or extended due date. Interest will accrue at one percent (1%) per month or portion thereof until full payment due is paid. You may prepay your anticipated tax liability with this extension in order to prevent accrual of interest between the original due date and extended due date.
